(b) a Meeting of the Conference of the Parties will be constrained in terms of its duration by its available budget but will normally not be fewer than five days in length;

(c) efficiency in the organization and running of a Meeting of the Conference of the Parties will be significantly enhanced by thorough preparation and by good communications among the Secretariat, the Standing Committee and the Parties prior to and during the Meeting;

(d) efficiency and effectiveness of a Meeting of the Conference of the Parties will be enhanced through the participation of an active Bureau in guiding the Chairs of Plenary, Committee of the Whole, other Committees and Working Groups, and reporting back by Bureau members to regional meetings during the Meeting; and

(e) the Regional Representatives elected to the Standing Committee will convene regional meetings for delegates immediately prior to and during a Meeting of the Conference of the Parties to inform them of discussions at the Bureau and to inform the Bureau of the views of the representatives;

   (b) the Standing Committee members convene regional meetings before commencement of the Meeting of the Conference of the Parties and also hold regular regional meetings, when necessary, during the Meeting; and

3. Recommends that, with respect to side events:

   (a) the Meeting of the Conference of the Parties and its subsidiary bodies (Committee of the Whole, Working Groups, Committees) take priority for scheduling and venues;

   (b) the Meeting of the Conference of the Parties not be extended in order to allow time for side events;

   (c) when feasible, key side events be held early in the Meeting of the Conference of the Parties to avoid potential clashes with meetings of the Committee of the Whole and other subsidiary bodies;

   (d) the Secretariat give priority to those events that directly support significant issues to be addressed by the Conference of the Parties;

Documentation

   (d) to provide documents in a format that can be edited and not edited (e.g., MS Word and PDF formats);
(e) to provide to representatives and observers on arrival at the Meeting of the Conference of the Parties, when feasible and subject to budgetary constraints, meeting documents on a preloaded USB stick or equivalent media; and

(f) to monitor the quality of translation and interpretation services and provide feedback to the Bureau;

5. Requests the Secretariat when preparing a new Resolution or Decision to include the references to the relevant Resolutions and Decisions of previous COPs in the COP documentation as well as to examine all those relevant Resolutions and Decisions in effect to identify elements that may require modification or follow-up so as to avoid duplication and ensure continuity in the work of the Convention;
