Aware of the importance of communication as a central and cross-cutting element for implementing the Convention and its Agreements,

Acknowledging ongoing local, national and international efforts of awareness raising about migratory birds and conservation,

Recalling Article IX, paragraph (j) of the Convention, which states that it is a function of the Secretariat “to provide the public with information concerning this Convention and its objectives”,

Acknowledging the thousands of World Migratory Bird Day activities, which have been carried out globally since 2006, and the dedication of the people and organizations behind them as well as the central role played by the Secretariats of the Convention and the Agreement on the Conservation of African-Eurasian Migratory Waterbirds (AEWA) in the organization of the annual campaign since 2006, and

Recognizing the growing importance of World Migratory Bird Day as a key international public awareness-raising campaign dedicated to migratory birds and nature conservation celebrated on the second Saturday in May and second Saturday in October, or when migratory birds are present at other times of the year,
