- (a) the spiny rock lobster or tail must be held with the ventral side uppermost;
 - (b) the tip of one of the primary pleural spines on the second abdominal segment must be brought into contact with the inside face of the longer section of the measuring bar (in this position the measuring bar being used will not normally be visible to the person measuring);
 - (c) with the tip of the spine in this position, the measuring device must be rotated to determine whether or not there is a position in which the tip of the other primary pleural spine on the second abdominal segment will reach that part of the inside edge of the other arm of the device that extends from the line referred to in subclause (3)(b)(ii) to the unattached end of the arm (the measuring edge).
- (5) No more pressure must be applied to the tail or to the measuring device than is necessary to make the measurement specified in subclause (4).

40 Method of measurement of packhorse rock lobster

- (1) For the purposes of this regulation, the length of the tail of a packhorse rock lobster is the distance measured in a straight line, with the tail laid flat, from the posterior side of the calcified bar on the underside of the first abdominal segment of the tail to the posterior edge of the telson of the tail fan.
- (2) In a dispute as to whether a packhorse rock lobster is undersize, the matter must be determined by measuring the length of the tail with a tail-length measuring device in accordance with this regulation.
- (3) The tail-length measuring device must—
 - (a) be supplied by the chief executive; and
 - (b) consist of a rigid metal bar with a pin set in it.
- (4) The tail length must be measured in the following manner:
 - (a) the pin of the measuring device must be placed against the mid-point on the posterior side of the calcified bar on the first abdominal segment of the tail:
 - (b) with the pin in that position and the tail laid flat, the measuring device must be brought into line with the posterior edge of the telson of the tail fan:
 - (c) when measuring that distance, no more pressure must be applied to the tail and the measuring device than is necessary to—
 - (i) cause the calcified bars on the ventral surface of the tail to just touch the measuring device; and
 - (ii) bring the pin and the bar of the device into contact with the relevant points of measurement.
- (5) The length of the tail is the distance indicated on the bar of the measuring device from the pin to the posterior edge referred to in subclause (4)(b).

71A Approval of trawl nets

- (1) The chief executive may, on application by any person, approve the use of a trawl net (A) if the chief executive is satisfied that—
 - (a) A performs at least as well as a specified net in providing for the utilisation of fisheries resources while ensuring sustainability (see regulation 71B); and
 - (b) the use of A is consistent with relevant fisheries plans approved under section 11A of the Act.
- (2) In this regulation and regulation 71B, specified net, in relation to an application for a net that is proposed to be used for taking 1 or more particular species in 1 or more areas, means a trawl net that,—
 - (a) at the time of the application, may be used for fishing under regulation 71 or under other regulations in force under the Act that relate to commercial fishing in a specified area of New Zealand fisheries waters; and
 - (b) the chief executive otherwise considers is appropriate to use for the comparison under subclause (1), having regard to the kinds of net that are commonly used, or are approved for use under this regulation, for taking at least 1 of those species in at least 1 of those areas or in a similar area.
- (3) The approval—
 - (a) must be notified on an Internet site maintained by or on behalf of the Ministry; and
 - (b) may be given on the terms and conditions that the chief executive thinks fit (for example, relating to the areas in which the net may be used and the species that may be targeted); and
 - (c) [Revoked]
- (4) The terms and conditions of an approval may be varied by the chief executive—
 - (a) on the application of the person who applied for the approval; or
 - (b) at the chief executive's own initiative if satisfied that the variation is necessary to address a risk to ensuring sustainability that was not known at the time the approval was first given.
- (5) A variation of the terms and conditions of an approval—
 - (a) must be notified on an Internet site maintained by or on behalf of the Ministry; and

- (b) takes effect 28 days after it is notified.
- (6) A person who uses a trawl net that has been approved under this regulation must comply with the terms and conditions of its approval (as varied from time to time).
- (7) If a person fails to comply with the terms and conditions of an approval, the approval ceases to have effect in respect of that person.

71B Consideration of application for approval

- (1) This regulation applies when the chief executive is comparing the performance of the trawl net that is the subject of the application (A) with that of a specified net (B) under regulation 71A.
- (2) The comparison must be made by assessing the following matters:

Species composition

- (a) how A compares (or is likely to compare) with B with respect to the relative species composition (including both quota management system and non-quota management system species):

Size composition

- (b) how A compares (or is likely to compare) with B with respect to the relative size composition (including both quota management system and non-quota management system species):

Impact on protected species

- (c) how the number of protected species injured or killed by A compares (or is likely to compare) with the number of protected species injured or killed by B:

Impact on benthic species

- (d) how the weight of benthic species, or the area of seabed, impacted by A compares (or is likely to compare) with the weight of benthic species, or the area of seabed, impacted by B.
- (3) The comparison may also include assessing any other matter that the chief executive considers relevant, including—
 - (a) matters relating to ensuring sustainability other than those described in subclause (2); and

- (3) The chief executive must publish, on an Internet site maintained by or on behalf of the Ministry,—

Schedule 3 Measurement of net mesh size

r 59

Part 1 Diagrams of certified gauges

Part 2

Method of net mesh size measurement using certified gauge

Use of certified gauge

- 1 The net must be stretched in the direction of the long diagonal of the meshes.
- 2 A certified gauge must be inserted by its narrowest extremity into the mesh opening at right angles or perpendicular to the plane of the net.

- 3 The gauge must be inserted into the mesh opening, either by manual force or by using a weight described in clause 15 or clause 16, until it is stopped at the tapering edges or parallel edges by the resistance of the mesh.

Selection of meshes to be measured

- 4 Despite clauses 5 and 6, a series of 20 consecutive meshes must be chosen to be measured, in the direction of the longest dimension of the net.
- 5 Mesh that has been mended or broken or has attachments fixed to the net must not be included for measurement.
- 6 The meshes to be measured under clause 4 need not be consecutive if the application of clause 5 prevents it.

Measurement of each mesh

- 7 Each mesh must be the width of the gauge at the point where the gauge is stopped, in accordance with clauses 1 to 3.

Determination of the mesh size of net

- 8 The mesh size of the net is the arithmetical mean in millimetres of the measurements of the total number of meshes selected and measured, as provided for in clauses 4 to 7 (the arithmetical mean being rounded up to the next millimetre).
- 9 The total number of meshes to be measured is provided for in clauses 10 to 13.

Sequence of measuring procedure

- 10 A fishery officer must measure a series of 20 meshes, selected in accordance with clauses 4 to 6, by inserting the gauge manually without using a weight.
- 11 The mesh size of the net must be determined in accordance with clause 8.
- 12 If the calculation of the mesh size shows that the mesh size does not appear to comply with the requirements of these regulations, then 2 additional series of 20 meshes selected in accordance with clauses 4 to 6 must be measured.
- 13 The mesh size must be recalculated in accordance with clause 8, taking into account the 60 meshes already measured.
- 14 Subject to clauses 15 to 18, this is the mesh size of the net.

Procedure to be used when measurement contested

- 15 If the operator of the vessel or any other person contests a determination of mesh size made in accordance with clauses 10 and 11, the net must be remeasured by using the appropriate weight specified in clause 16 or clause 17 and by measuring a series of 20 meshes that have not previously been measured. This will be the net mesh size when calculated in accordance with clause 8.

- 16 For remeasurement, a weight must be attached to the gauge, affixed to the hole in the narrowest extremity of the gauge by means of a hook.
- 17 For nets with a mesh size of 35 mm or less, as determined in accordance with clauses 10 and 11, and for all beach seine nets, drag nets, and set nets, a force of between 19.59 N and 19.63 N (equivalent to a mass of 2 kg) must be applied by using a weight of 2 kg.
- 18 For nets with a mesh size of more than 35 mm, as determined in accordance with clauses 10 and 11, a force of between 48.97 N and 49.07 N (equivalent to a mass of 5 kg) must be applied by using a weight of 5 kg.
- 19 A weight must not be used for the purposes of this schedule unless it—
 - (a) bears an identifying mark including the letters “MAF”, and a number referred to in a report referred to in paragraph (b); and
 - (b) is certified by reference to the mark and number referred to in a report issued either by the Measurements Standards Laboratory of New Zealand (as defined in the National Standards Regulations 1976) or by an inspector or an accredited person (as those terms are defined in section 2 of the Weights and Measures Act 1987) as being accurate for the purposes of these regulations.

5 Stroke width

The width of the stroke for all letters and the hyphen must be one-sixth of their height.

6 Spaces between letters and numbers
