ETHNOTOURISM IN THE BABAÇU VILLAGE

Visit to the Babaçu Village, of the Terena ethnic group.

The experience begins with a welcome and introduction by the guide Jefferson, a resident of the Babaçu Village itself, who leads visitors on a walk through the community.

During the journey, the group discovers medicinal plants, seasonal fruits (when available), and learns about the traditional uses of these species in Terena culture.

The tour continues to the homes of local artisans who produce ceramics and basketry — an opportunity to observe, participate in the process, and purchase pieces directly from the artisans, contributing to the community's income and taking home an authentic souvenir of the Pantanal.

The walk also reveals stories about the ancestry, language, spirituality, and customs of the Terena people. The journey ends at the starting point, after a genuine immersion in the daily life and wisdom of this indigenous people.

MIRANDA ON FOOT WALK FOR 247 YEARS

A guided walking tour through the historic center of Miranda.

Miranda wasn't born a tourist destination—it was born strategic. Founded in 1778 as a military prison on the border of colonial Brazil, the city was destroyed during the Paraguayan War and rebuilt practically from scratch. On this walking city tour, visitors explore the main historical landmarks of the old center, observing centuries-old mansions, the old train station, historic public buildings, and streets that tell the story of how Miranda reinvented itself over almost two and a half centuries. The tour is conducted at a relaxed pace, with in-depth narration, real curiosities, and connections between history, architecture, economy, and the Pantanal wetlands that begin in the city.
