Table 3: List of internationally important sites for migratory birds of prey raptors in Africa and Eurasia [as at MoS2 2015]

This list includes internationally important sites for migratory birds of prey^[1] identified as Important Bird and Biodiversity Areas (IBAs)^[2] (listed in black) and/or EC Birds Directive Special Protection Areas (SPAs)^[3] (listed in red) or other Signatory-recognised sites that meet criteria of international importance^[4] (listed in purple). Some sites of the three types may overlap spatially, but different site types are listed separately for clarity.

Sites are ordered alphabetically by region: Africa, Asia, Central Asia, Europe, Middle East and within each region, alphabetically by country. Season refers to the period of the year during which the ‘qualifying trigger species’ is present (as documented by the BirdLife International Partnership in the IBA Database).

^[1] As listed in Annex 1 of the Raptors MoU (<http://www.cms.int/raptors/en/page/agreement-text>)

^[2] <http://datazone.birdlife.org/site/ibacriteria>

^[3] The Birds Directive: Directive 2009/147/EC. For EU Member States Special Protection Areas (SPAs) listed are those recorded in the official Natura 2000 dataset (<http://www.eea.europa.eu/data-and-maps/data/natura-6>). There may be significant spatial overlap between some IBAs and some SPAs.
